WORKING WITH FEARFUL DOGS — Saturday, April 4, 2009

Is your dog afraid of strangers? Would he rather hide than play with other dogs? Does he take cover at the sound of thunder, or cringe when you pick up a brush or nail clippers? Never fear! Whatever your dog is afraid of, this comprehensive guide to the treatment of canine anxiety, fears and phobias can help. Many dog owners, trainers and shelter workers find anxiety, fears and phobias to be among the most challenging behaviors to treat. This information packed workshop incorporates lectures, photographs and extensive video footage to explore the art of working with fearful dogs. Topics include cause and prevention, how fear manifests; recognized and lesser-known stress signals; a firm foundation program on which to build confidence; skills to teach owners, skills to teach dogs, a brief review of desensitization and counterconditioning, and what training equipment is (and is not) appropriate.

CREATIVE CLIENT COACHING — Sunday, April 5, 2009

Any trainer will tell you that training people can be a lot more challenging than training dogs. This fun filled interactive seminar will help you to become a better coach to your clients. You'll learn how to teach more efficiently, keep your students motivated, and in the process, make coaching a more pleasant experience so that you avoid client-induced burnout. You'll get tips and techniques on working with everyday clients, as well as those who have difficulty learning, children, the elderly and those who are physically challenged. You will learn unique, creative, motivational teaching games, some of which are geared toward private lessons and others that are great fun in a group class setting.

No refunds after March 1, 2009. "Minimum $3.00 service charge per cancellation includes GST.
