

Nanaimo Kennel Club presents:

Tami McLeod

Drive Development Workshop

At this workshop, the goal is to help you learn to create a dog that is active rather than reactive, is able to think and sustain drive in competition.

This will be geared to trainers and handlers of all levels and disciplines who are interested in learning more about creating drive in their dogs.

Date: Saturday and Sunday, February 11th & 12th 2017

Place: Centennial Building, Beban Park (on Bowen Road) Nanaimo

Time: Sat 11th, 9-5, with 1/2 hr. lunch / Sun 12th, 8.30-4.30 with 1/2 hr. lunch

Cost: $225 with dog (limited entry);
$150 weekend (or $80 per day) audit spot

Scones, baking, coffee and tea will be included, but bring your own lunch.

Or there is a coffee shop near by, Tim H., Starbucks, McDonald's etc a short drive away.

Some of the highlights of this workshop include:

- Teaching you the benefits of working a dog "IN DRIVE"
- Identifying different drives as they pertain to working dogs (play, prey, defense, fight, food)
- A brief overview of the importance of marking/conditioning the release for drive development
- Play technique-skills relevant to empowering your dog
- Developing cues and steps to achieve accuracy in a drive state

Your interest may be in obedience, agility, or fly ball or just about any dog sport – Tami has a great ability to assess and help dog & handler teams to grow and enjoy working together.

Tami McLeod is a dog trainer, coach and behavioral consultant and brings over twenty years of dog training experience. Her emphasis is on establishing a clear foundation to create a thinking dog that offers correct behaviors and the techniques may be applied to most dog performance activities including competitive obedience, agility, fly ball, IPO, ring sport, police k9.

Tami's system provides gentle, effective, motivational, science based methods from puppy foundation work to competition preparation. She believes in a balanced approach to dog if and can help you achieve a correct relationship with your dog while teaching behaviors in a fun and motivational manner.

Tami has been a coach to many professional trainers and regularly instructs those prepping for competition as well as pet obedience. As a representative to the world championships in Germany, she has both the skill and experience to bring out the most reliable performance in your dog.

She is a past member on the United States world championship team to Europe, founding member of the American Working Malinois Association, held board positions in national organizations, featured on radio, interviewed by the Australia Working Dog magazine, and has trained side by side with some of the world's top trainers in the field of competitive dog sports.
