NEW VENUE - Athens, ON is a township in the united townships of Leeds and Grenville in Eastern Ontario Canada. It is located approximately 25 kilometres (16 mi) north of the St. Lawrence River, near Brockville, west of Addison, and about 90 kilometres (56 mi) south west of Ottawa.

Originally known as Farmersville, Athens was settled by Benoni Wiltse, a United Empire Loyalist, and his brothers in 1792. The town was renamed to Athens in 1888 by Arza Parish in honour of Athens, Greece, due to its status as an educational centre. Today, Athens is known for its large outdoor murals depicting historical local life, painted on the sides of various buildings.

The Township of Athens is part of the region's heartland and is also famous for its lakes and cottage country. Charleston Lake is the jewel of the area, attracting boating, fishing and water sport enthusiasts. Athens, Ontario, hosts a summer fair called "Cornfest" on the 3rd Saturday of August annually, celebrating the harvest of corn. Another annual event is the "Farmersville Exhibition", also known as "Steam Fair", which celebrates the town's agricultural heritage with displays of steam engines and antique tractors.

The Township of Athens has all the amenities of a larger community, but with a small-town atmosphere and strong agricultural roots. It boasts restaurants, a liquor store, grocery stores, hardware and much more.

Athens has much to offer and TIKO is so grateful to be able to utilize Athens Arena 76 and Centennial Park for our annual weekend of shows and trials this year
