Hosted by the Golden Retriever Club of BC

November 2 & 3, 2019 9 am to 5 pm
Highpoint Equestrian Centre, 658 200th Avenue, Langley, BC

Day 1 & 2: State-of-the-art information for participants to understand their dog's physical structure, gait, nutrition and other topics on how the canine body works, so that they can improve their dogs' performance and keep them healthy and injury-free.

Seminars are geared for those interested in a wide variety of performance events including agility, conformation, obedience, tracking, field, agility, lure coursing, and herding, etc. and many other aspects of canine performance. Seminars are highly interactive and provide ample opportunity for attendees and their dogs to participate in structure and gait analysis, to practice conditioning exercises with their dogs and to participate in jump training and exercises appropriate to targeted performance events. Chris alternates between lecture time and activities in which participants can work their dogs. She uses high quality visual aids including Power Point presentations and abundant slow motion videos.

Each day consists of two to three modules, with each module consisting of a lecture and discussion period followed by demonstrations and activities with participants' dogs.

1-DAY INTENSIVE PERSONALIZED STRUCTURE/GAIT ANALYSIS® CLINIC

Day 3: After the two-day Coaching the Canine Athlete® seminar. In this clinic, Chris gets up close and personal with up to 12 dogs and their handlers. She evaluates the in depth structure of each dog and discusses with the handlers the advantages and disadvantages of each dog's build.

In addition, each dog's gait is evaluated and handlers are shown how to maximize the movement of their individual dog to help maximize performance and reduce the risk of injuries in their chosen performance events.

Each dog and handler is provided with an individualized conditioning and fitness program, and handlers are shown how to monitor their dog for subtle signs of pain or dysfunction, long before any lameness would show up.

Reviews:

It was absolutely the most fantastic seminar I've ever been to (and I've just about seen 'em all!). If you are competing yourself or teaching students who plan to compete or train their dogs for any activity beyond couch potato, get to this seminar! Kathy S., OH

I can't recommend this seminar highly enough. To be fair to our dogs, we need to know and understand their make-up before making any demands. I've been to many seminars, and this is one that I'd recommend as a must to anybody who competes with his/her dogs; be it obedience, agility, conformation, structured, informative, interactive and excellent speaker!
